

Jesus Film Ministry – Uganda – 2015 Updates

- We mobilized churches, groups and individuals to pray for a demonstration of The Lord's victory against mukasa, a revered god of war and the water god among the Baganda tribe in central Uganda.
- Our involvement in encouraging interdenominational teamwork has seen great results Pastors and other leaders are working together helping one another, standing as one and building the Kingdom of God.
- Teams of us have visited and stood with churches around the country. We have just returned from where our continued partnership has seen the local church grow and start ten other congregations in the surrounding region.

Jesus Film Ministry – Uganda

3 lessons learned so far in 2015...

1. There is great power in partnership/teamwork. Efforts by small and little churches and church groups produce a powerful force of love, compassion, healing and establishment of the Lord's kingdom.
2. The kingdom of darkness is a defeated kingdom. Mukasa's followers looked and sounded scary and dangerous against the Christians, area authorities and even the police force in the area. The fervent prayer of the church helped prove to everyone, particularly on Sese Islands that Jesus is Lord and mukasa or any other god, is no match to The King of kings.
3. We should serve The Lord with whatever He places in our hands now. It is good to be faithful and serve Him with what we have now as opposed to waiting hoping for more before we begin to serve.
