

Seasons

Everything in due season

We know what season it is in the natural world, but what season are we in spiritually?

Since this summer it has been very clear that we have been and are in a season of harvest, regardless of what is happening outdoors. We get to see fruit at its peak sweetness and harvest, enjoy, preserve and give it away. We are praising God for His faithfulness in this season.

What does that look like for our family and ministry? Our children are growing into who they were made to be and are bearing fruit spiritually. Hannah is leading a small group of young women who are seeking to deepen their relationship in Christ and she is using some of our resources to teach and lead.

Some of the bold and scary kind of prayers we prayed 2 years ago in the ladies groups that Anna leads are being fulfilled:

- A child with a cancer diagnosis in a Muslim context that was declared hopeless is healed and is thriving!
- New ministry roles are assigned to a missionary that looked impossible at the time!
- Books are being written!

We are also experiencing so much joy in seeing others grow, receive healing and live out their new normal.

These are not just occasional testimonies this is our current normal and there are so many stories!

As much as we love seeing God work through us and around us in this way we want to humbly honor Him for allowing us to serve in this way. We are so used to seeing good fruit that we forget to write it down. We are working on being diligent to preserve the testimonies and stories so that we can relish them in the next season.

We don't know how long this season will last but we know that He will lead us when it is time.

What spiritual season are you in? Why does it matter? If we pay attention to the season we can more deeply submit to what God is asking us to do in that season.

So we keep on encouraging, praying, hugging and loving on missionaries so that they can thrive in their season.

Update on Megan

Megan is three weeks into her experience at YWAM Justice DTS in Cologne Germany. She is being stretched, challenged and is learning much. We had a chance to visit her briefly and love what God is doing in her. She will remain in Cologne until Christmas and then she has been assigned to go on outreach/Justice mission for three months to BRASIL! We are still waiting on concrete details and will update you all when we know more.

Pray for her growth, health and the team as they prepare. This week they are learning about inner healing! Pray for breakthroughs for her personally and the other students and staff.

Her DTS portion has been paid! Thank you, so much for praying!

Now she will need to raise 2000€ for the Mission/outreach to BRASIL before December 27th. That is when they leave. Join us in prayer for provision and for Megan to trust Him in faith. YWAM link

Praises & Prayers you can join us in:

- the Harvest is plenty and good
- strength as we are busy managing the harvest and fruit
- rest in the middle
- wisdom and discernment so we don't get too busy
- protection for our family and sweet moments when we can all be together

With love and gratitude!
David and Anna
