

Dear Friends and Family,

Greetings to you from Hunter and I, we hope this letter finds you well. I want to share some exciting news. As many of you know 19 years ago I stepped out in faith to pursue a dream of working for the Lord; to work on people's hearts through their homes. Dwelling Services has been an incredible journey to bless so many, and to be blessed myself, using my skills, talents and, faith in Jesus.

When I started Dwelling Services, I knew there would come a day to move on and continue the journey with God's guidance again. Recently I have done just that with the launch of "The Living Well" (from where all blessings flow). The focus and direction of The Living Well will be to travel to and relocate in areas of need following natural disasters. This mission was put upon my heart several years ago along with the vision of traveling to these areas with a travel trailer.

In May of 2023 I sold my home, closed Dwelling Services and purchased a 21-foot travel trailer that I have been outfitting with all I need to live remotely. Currently I am talking with Tony from Hosanna Heart Ministry about ways I could help them help others as they have an ongoing presence in Kentucky and Texas. My mission will be to come alongside churches, organizations, and the local community, sharing my knowledge of project management and building skills to help restore homes and communities with the hope of impacting the lives and hearts of others with the Love of Christ that flows from his living well. This is not something that can be accomplished alone or on my own which is why I am reaching out today.

This new endeavor needs your help in several key areas:

*First; I would like to ask you to pray for me and the mission ahead. This new adventure is looking bigger than I had ever imagined. It is something I cannot do on my own, however, I know with God walking beside me, anything is possible. I would like to put together a team of prayer partners, and if you'd like to be on this team please reach out and let me know.

*Second; There is a great need for encouragement and support. This has been at times overwhelming and an encouraging phone call or conversation is welcome :) I also have many things to organize and put into action, things like fund raising, web site development, documenting, outreach, administrative assistance, help in many ways. I am looking for friends and family that can help bring this together.

*Third; I'm looking for financial support from partners who want to make a direct impact in areas where natural disasters and life's misfortunes have touched others.

People are in need of God's saving grace for healing and moving forward. Monthly contributions will help keep this ministry sustaining. One-time donations, annual support, or donations at times of extreme need are also greatly appreciated.

Your tax-deductible donations can be made online at: <https://globalhz.org/the-living-well>

To give via check, donations can be mailed to:

Thank you for being part of my journey to this point and I look forward to our continued journey together through this next chapter. Please call, text, or e-mail me to set up a time to meet. I'd like to hear from all of you so I can share this dream and answer your questions. I welcome your thoughts on spreading God's grace and helping heal the hearts and lives of others

HELP ME to HELP THEM

Sincerely,

Randy Beadle
